

Prometheus is an open-source monitoring tool designed to capture and process numeric time-series data with associated metrics, labels, and timestamps.

Captures and stores time-series data with metrics, labels, and timestamps.

Uses HTTP scraping to gather metrics from targets like Kubernetes, databases, and applications.

Supports diverse infrastructure platforms for comprehensive monitoring.

Integrates with Alertmanager to provide powerful alerting capabilities.